Pat Fahey chairs the firm's Business Litigation Practice Group, which focuses on complex civil dispute resolution, including arbitration, mediation, and litigation in state and federal courts. He is particularly experienced at handling disputes involving intellectual property rights, such as copyrights, trademarks and patents, and has over twenty years of litigation experience in state and federal court on behalf of individuals and private and public entities. Pat also has significant experience litigating appeals and leads the firm's appellate practice.

Pat also represents individuals, institutions, and charities in fiduciary disputes, and litigates matters in both the Probate Court and the Superior Court

In addition, Pat assists healthcare clients in privacy-related litigation, including claims related to medical records disclosure, and he advises clients regarding privacy obligations under state and federal law.

Pat was a law clerk to Judge Ellsworth A. Van Graafeiland of the United States Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit and to Judge Dominic J. Squatrito and Magistrate Judge Thomas P. Smith, both of the United States District Court for the District of Connecticut.
